Preface.

THE Island of St. Christopher, or as it is more generally called, St. Kitts, is the oldest colony in the British West Indies, having been settled by Thomas Warner in 1623-4.

The French having also landed about the same time, a partition was effected, the English taking the central portion, and the French the two extremities.

The Colony was first divided into Quarters or Divisions, which appear to have been military districts. Later six parishes were formed, viz., Trinity Palmeto Point, St. Thomas Middle Island, and St. Anne's Sandy Point on the Leeward side; and St. John's Cabbesterre, Christ Church Nicola Town, and St. Mary Cayon on the Windward side. After the whole Island had passed by conquest and treaty in 1713 to the English, three additional parishes were constituted in 1727 out of the French districts, viz., St. Paul Cabesterre, St. Peter Basseterre and St. George Basseterre.

The parish of St. Thomas, Middle Island (in early days styled St. Thomas in the Middle Division), was the oldest one, and here are to be found the estates, such as Wingfield Manor and Godwins Manor, taken up by the earliest settlers, of whom Sir Thomas Warner and Capt. Samuel Jefferson were both buried in the churchyard. Here also is Old Road Town, the ancient English capital, which remained as such until 1728, when the seat of government was transferred to the more commodious and salubrious town of Basseterre.

In the adjoining Old Road Bay, a sheltered roadstead, the first emigrant ships cast anchor, and the stream from which they drew their water is still pointed out.

By an Act of 1711 for regulating the Vestries, it was ordered: "That in every Parish Church shall be kept two large Paper Books for the publick Service of the said Parish; one whereof shall be kept for the Parish Accounts, by the Church-Wardens, the other as a Register for Christnings, Marriages & Funerals, to be kept by the Minister only."

For the transcript of this present Register we are indebted to Mr. John Bromley, who, while in St. Kitts from Aug. to Oct. 1912, copied the older portions of all the parish registers. No one could have been better fitted for the purpose, for Mrs. Bromley being a daughter of the late Hon. Thomas Hardtman-Berkeley of St. Kitts and Antigua, most of the older families were well known to them. The condition of the Registers as a rule is bad, and as no official transcripts exist (as they do in Barbados), the Editor hopes to be able to print other volumes as time permits. Transcripts about the period 1720—40 were sent home to the Plantation Office, but the practice was unfortunately discontinued.

Oct. 1915. VERE L. OLIVER.
